Males patrol their territorial borders with a vengeance, and attack and even kill males from neighboring communities. As we destroy their forest homes, we extirpate not just gene pools but also indigenous cultures, for as we have learned in recent years, cultural traditions are defining qualities of the great apes. Some of their ramped-up sexuality appears to be Planet Without Apes by the enforced proximity of captivity, as wild bonobos don't mate any more frequently than chimpanzees . Tapheretoturnondesktopnotificationstogetthenewssentstraighttoyou. The only Asian great ape is the red-haired orangutan. Not only that, male and females copulate Planet Without Apes to face, unlike chimpanzees, and same sex genital contact is common. If we can't even awaken to the notion that our overwhelming pressure on the environment is driving our closest relatives to extinction, perhaps conservation has failed.
